McGILL WON DEBATE WITH ST. JAMES SOC.

Campbell, McLeod and Alexander Spoke For McGill

BRILLIANT ORATORY

Subject "Resolved That The Arts Would Flourish Under A Socialistic State."

In a debate with the St. James Literary Society on the subject "Resolved that the arts would flourish under a socialistic state," the McGill debater emerged victorious on Tuesday evening. The McGill debaters, who upheld the negative, were E. E. Campbell, E. McLeod, and B. M. Alexander, and the St. James debaters were Messrs. J. Beard, Francis Hankin, and J. Duthie. The debate was judged by Professor Brunet of Macdonald College, Principal Smyth of Wesleyan College, and Mr. Scott of the Gazette.

Mr. Beard was the first speaker for the affirmative. He announced that the definition of arts and socialism had been agreed upon by both sides. Arts was taken as the creative and imaginative arts, and socialism, as defined in Webster's Dictionary.

The issue resolved itself largely into the conditions under which man could do his best work, and Mr. Beard contended that extremes of wealth and poverty both militated against good work, wealth being enervating and poverty, with its absence of security, being paralyzing or at least distracting. The creative artist should have liberty of choice as to vocation, and also a public responsive to and critical of his work. Art reached a high state under Greece and Rome, but it was practised by a few for the few and left the masses and the slaves untouched, and any return to the social conditions of those days was unthinkable. Society today was faced with two alternatives—a continuation of the present economic system or an advance to the socialistic state. Arts had flourished much more under the individualistic system of the medieval ages and Tudor and Stuart times in England than under the present industrial era, in which progress was largely limited to advance in applied science and mass production on stereotyped lines. Under a socialistic state, man would be master, not the servant of machinery; he would have leisure for reflection and creative work, and with freedom from poverty and disease would come the opening of the gate to beauty and the temple of knowledge.

McLeod, the next speaker, opened for McGill. He reviewed the origin and progress of art to the Renaissance. Socialism was a high and ennobling ideal, but it took no account of fallible human nature. Civilization had been too brief to eradicate the selfishness of humanity, and conflict was a condition of progress. Socialism was dominated by the economic principle, while art is of the spirit and is nourished best by religious fervor and spiritual vigor.

Mr. Hankin, who followed, challenged the previous speaker's claim that conflict was necessary to progress by saying that any progress now being registered was due to co-operation and not to conflict. Liberty was necessary to the fullest development of art, but it was the liberty which was limited by mutual consent for the good of all. Already governments were the chief supporters of art in the erection of beautiful buildings, the provision of art galleries and the purchase of art works for the people and with the fuller control of all means of production by government would come an extension of the kingdom of art, which is like to the Kingdom of God.

Alexander, for McGill, carried the history of art from the Renaissance to modern times, showing how in succession the church, royalty, the aristocracy and the wealthy classes had by their patronage enabled the artists to produce masterpieces. Art had thus thrived under the most undemocratic conditions, which would not exist under a socialistic state, and with the incentives of competition and financial reward removed, and a dull level of routine imposed, little art would be produced.

Mr. Duthie retorted that while art had flourished under undemocratic systems, it was only because the artists had been given the leisure and the security which would be assured them under socialism. Art was at a low level now and certainly could not fare worse under socialism than

Positively No Reservations To Be Made

GREAT DEMAND

Only First 225 Students To Arrive At Union Will Receive Tickets

The subscription list for McGill's latest dance extravaganza, the Alma Mater, will open at one p.m. sharp, today. Exactly 192, two by three inch pasteboards will be put at the disposal of the undergraduates.

It has been brought to the notice of the dance committee that some five score students will be attending clinics at the hospitals or writing exams at the time tickets are placed on sale to-day, so it has been decided to withhold thirty-five tickets to be sold at one o'clock tomorrow (Friday).

A total of 225 pasteboards for this year's Alma Mater dance will be sold, a slightly higher number than last year.

The interest in the 1925 edition of the Alma Mater is unprecedented, forty students having already attempted to get tickets at the Tuck Shop. In view of the great demand it is impossible to hold or reserve tickets for individuals. Everyone will have the same chance of securing an admittance. Limited space does not permit of selling any extra tickets, even with both the ballroom and the lounge room being at the disposal of the peripatetic artists.

Members of the committee will take charge of the subscription lists. On no account will more than one ticket be sold to any undergraduate.

PROFESSOR WEBSTER TO LECTURE HERE

Is Well-known Historian From University Of Wales

Prof. Chas. K. Webster, one of England's leading historians will give a lecture at the Royal Victoria College tomorrow, February 28, at 5 p.m. his subject being "History as an Applied Science."

Prof. Webster holds the Chair of International Politics at Aberystwyth (University of Wales), and in that capacity, lectures for but one term during the year, taking part in foreign research work during the other months. He will visit Montreal for the first time tomorrow, this also being his first tour in Canada.

He is considered one of the leading young historians in England. Though under forty years of age, he is well-known in the historical world. (Continued on Page Three) under a system where artists had to produce magazine covers or posters, jazz compositions and best sellers to gain a livelihood, instead of doing the best work of which they were capable. Socialism would give that liberty which would permit the development of the non-material side of life.

Campbell leader for McGill, closing the debate for his side, said that delusive and hypocritical arguments of the affirmative were the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things not seen. He quoted prominent English laborites to show that under socialism force would be the chief argument, private property would be seized, religion and the home abolished and all incentive to effort lacking, and claimed that under such conditions there would be no encouragement for artists, and any art produced would be mediocre. The best art had been produced under hard competition and as the result of necessity, and he instanced Michael Angelo, Shakespeare and Sir Walter Scott.

If leisure was conducive to the best art, he asked, why had not some good art come from wealthy and leisured classes?

Mr. Beard in rebuttal spoke briefly. He said that while the addresses of their opponents had been vigorous they had contained little real argument. Even if socialism meant the abolition of money, the real wealth of the country would remain to be shared by all. He had more faith in his fellow-men than to believe that socialism would mean the negation of religion, inspiration and the desire for self-expression to the highest possible level.

MANDOLIN CLUB WILL BROADCAST TO-NIGHT

The McGill Mandolin Club will broadcast favourite melodies, medleys and jazz hits, from the powerful amateur station 10 A.U. owned by J. A. Miller, well-known Montreal radio expert. The musical strains will be greatly augmented by a saxophone, as before. Station 10 A.U. is situated at 136 Vendome Avenue, N.D.G. Members are requested to be at the above address at 8.45, in preparation for the programme which starts at 9 o'clock.

R. V. C. Sextette To Play Queen's and Varsity

THREE GAMES

McGill Contenders Confident Of Returning With Cup

Last night at 10.30 the R.V.C. Basketball Team left the Windsor Station bound for Toronto. There the two most important events of the basketball season will be staged tonight and Friday night when the teams play Queen's and Varsity at Hart House. The outcome of these games will decide the Women's Inter-Collegiate Basketball Championship for this year. On Saturday the R.V.C. sextette will play an exhibition game with Miss Z. Slack's team from Hamilton. Miss Slack is a graduate of R.V.C. and of the M.S.P.E.

Last year the title and trophy went to Varsity and the year before to McGill. This is the fifth season for Women's Inter-Collegiate Basketball and the past winners of the title are as follows:

- 1921—Varsity.
- 1922—Varsity.
- 1923—McGill.
- 1924—Varsity.

In 1923 a trophy was presented by the McGill Students' Council, and Varsity is the present holder of this, however the R.V.C. Team is travelling to Toronto with a firm resolve to do its utmost to retrieve the trophy.

At the meet in Kingston last year R.V.C. won from Queen's by quite a large margin and lost to Varsity 15-12 only after overtime play, although three of last year's team have graduated there still remain five who have played Inter Collegiate Basketball before. The team has had some hard training under the direction of Miss Cartwright who is accompanying them on their trip. The result of faithful practice with such an untiring coach has resulted in the R.V.C. team winning five games out of six, the sixth game resulting in a tie with the M.S.P.E.

Four members of the team Miss E. Dunton, Miss M. McWaters, Miss R. Dunton and Miss G. Cameron are wearers of the big R.V.C. the highest award that can be won by women in athletics at McGill. Miss E. Dunton, manager and captain of the team, has played Inter-Collegiate Basketball on the senior team for two years and has shown consistent style on defense. Miss Dunton and Miss G. Cameron who also occupied the position of guard on last year's team at Kingston can be relied upon to exhibit excellent defense work.

Miss R. Dunton has also been on the senior team for two years and was a member of the 1923 championship team in her first year she is invaluable to the team in her position as side centre, and always plays a speedy and brilliant game.

Although this is Miss M. Ratner's first season with college Basketball she can be relied upon to do helpful work as jumping centre having shown up well in inter-class college games.

Playing the position of forward will be Miss J. Allen, who with Miss Dunton and Miss Ratner starred on the Third Year team in the inter-class games and won the Inter-Year Championship.

Miss P. Perry who was a spare shot last year at Kingston has been shooting with remarkable precision in all games this year, Miss Perry is noted for her ability to be in the right place at the right time.

Miss L. Chalk has done fine work in the position of forward on the second team which has lost only one game this season. Miss Chalk, Miss (Continued on Page Three)

SIR. G. FOSTER TO EXPOUND PROTOCOL

Noted Statesman To Deliver Address At R. V. C.

MARCH 9th.

Meeting Under The Auspices Of Six Organizations

It is announced by the executive of the McGill Canadian Club that Sir George Foster, P.C., G.C.M.G., will address a large meeting at the Royal Victoria College on Monday, March 2nd, on "The League and the Geneva Protocol." This meeting will be held under the auspices of the following clubs:—The McGill Canadian Club, The Young Men's Canadian Club, The Women's Canadian Club, The Local Council of Women, The Catholic Women's League and the McGill Women's Union. All members of these organizations have been invited to attend and in addition the public is invited. The promoters are confident that Convocation Hall will be filled to capacity.

Sir George Foster is particularly well-known, both as a fine public speaker and also as one well qualified to deal with the subject of the address. When Sir Robert Borden resigned as President of the League of Nations, Society, Sir George Foster was elected to this position and he has been very prominent in the affairs of the League as they affect Canada. Two years ago, the students of McGill had the privilege of hearing Sir George when he addressed the Canadian Club on the League of Nations, and from comments heard about the campus it is clear that his splendid speech has by no means been forgotten.

It is also announced that Sir Arthur Currie will be the Chairman of the evening and it is evident from the remarks of those in charge that the coming address will be one of great importance both in promoting support for the League and in providing for the students of McGill, an opportunity of hearing a famous speaker on a subject of world-importance. The McGill Canadian Club further announces that Mr. R. L. Calder has accepted their invitation to speak and will be heard in the Union on Monday, March 9th. Mr. Calder has in the last year gained considerable prominence through his public utterances. His performance in the debate on capital punishment with Mr. Clarence Darrow, the counsel for the defense in the Loeb-Leopold case was everywhere considered as masterly, and his recent speech to the Canadian Club of Montreal on the "Bondage of Debt" has received favorable comment from all quarters.

The Executive of the McGill Canadian Club intimates that there is a good chance that the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons and The Right-Honorable L. A. Taschereau, Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec may address the Club before the close of the present session.

FINISHING TOUCHES FOR GYM. CONTEST

The finishing touches to their various stunts and combinations are being practised by the members of the "Gym" Club in preparation for the College Championships to be held tomorrow.

The Intercollegiate team to compete against "Varsity" on March 14th in Toronto will be chosen after the contest, so that competition ought to be very keen.

The winner in the Graduating Class will receive the Wicksteed Silver medal and small "M"; the Intermediate and first year winners will receive the Wicksteed bronze medal and Dr. F. W. Harvey trophies respectively.

The programme is as follows:—
1—Horizontal Bar, 2 Set and 1 Voluntary Exercise
2—Parallel Bars 2 Set and 1 Voluntary Exercise
3—Horse, 2 Set and 1 Voluntary Exercise.

UKELELE PLAYERS

A few more men who can play a uke are wanted for the Chorus in the Revue. Those wishing a try-out, meet Paul Marchand this afternoon in the Union Ball-room at 5.15. Don't forget to bring a uke.

COMMERCE 2 BEAT ARTS SOPHS. BY 4-3

In a fast even game, played on good ice, Commerce Sophomores downed Arts II by the odd goal in seven, yesterday afternoon. The issue was in doubt all the way through the game, the score being tied a few minutes from the end when Cameron decided the battle by a goal for Commerce. The game was played in three 15-minute periods. At the end of the first period the score stood one-all. Arts scored a point in the second, and Commerce having the better of the third period, brought their score to 4, against Arts' 3.

SWIMMERS TO LEAVE TO-DAY FOR TORONTO

McGill Swimming Team To Tackle Strong U. of T. Aggregation.

FRIDAY NIGHT

Expected That Red and White Mermen Will Retain Title

The McGill Swimming team leaves tonight for the Intercollegiate Meet at Toronto on Friday night. Mr. Vernot has turned out a well balanced, and speedy team, this term and there is a good chance of the Red and White mermen capturing the championship thus repeating their performance of last year. This year's team is very strong, as it has practically the same line up as last year with the exception of two or three who have turned out this season for the first time.

The relay team has been showing up well so far and is expected to do good work on Friday. The men on this team are George Vernot, Geo. Vickerson, Clayton Bourne and "Vic" Charholm. These men have participated in at least one of the senior meets. Victor Charholm is the only one going in for the diving; he has been in care of Paul Scott, a former intercollegiate championship diver.

Adams who has turned out this year for the first time will swim with Geo. Vickerson in the 50 yds backstroke race. The 50 yds speed swim will be hotly contested by Bourne and Kyle and they hope to bring the bacon home in fast time.

George Vernot and Forsythe are to do the long plunge. The latter, known in swimming circles as the "plunging parson", won this event in the Dominion championships last week.

It is expected that Bourne will swim with Kaine in the 100 yds breast-stroke race. Kaine is a newcomer who has shown up well and Bourne's past record is above par.

The U. of T. men will have to go pretty fast to keep up with Vernot and Charholm in the 200 yd speed event. From the practice times it is evident that the boys have left nothing undone to get into the best of condition for the struggle on Friday night.

The following is the list of entries Relay Race (4 men 50 yds each)
George Vernot, Clayton Bourne, Victor Charholm, George Vickerson.

DEBATES TO TAKE PLACE TO-MORROW

Queen's and Toronto Meet Teams In Contest

IMMIGRATION

Schwisberg and Goforth Off To Kingston—Jones and Smith Here

Tomorrow night McGill debaters will again take the field when they meet Queen's at Kingston and Toronto at Strathcona Hall here. "Resolved that Canada should adopt an immigration policy of drastic restrictions similar in principle to that enforced by the United States" is the resolution to be debated both at Kingston and here, and at Queen's McGill will argue the negative while here the affirmative will be upheld.

S. Schwisberg and W. Goforth leave to-day to represent McGill at the outside debate while A. Norman Jones and R. Smith remain to meet the Toronto men. Queen's it is understood will be represented by E. R. Smith and H. O. MacFarlane.

Schwisberg and Goforth are well known in University debating circles. The former has made a name for himself on the parliament floor having made one of the outstanding addresses at the time of the St. Lawrence Waterways debate with Cornell. The latter is doing post-graduate work here and in addition to his athletic abilities has proven himself to be one of McGill's best orators this year. A. Norman Jones is known to McGill men as the winner of last year's extempore oratory competition. He has spoken on many occasions from the parliament floor. R. Smith entered the field of oratory this year for the first time and won distinction immediately. He recently spoke at the Mock Parliament on the immigration problem and is generally accepted that he together with Jones, will make a good showing against Toronto.

The local debate is to be held in Strathcona Hall and the students are urged to attend.

RADIO CONCERT TO-MORROW NIGHT

Two Loud-speakers To Be Installed In Cafeteria

For to-morrow night's entertainment two loud-speakers will be employed so as to ensure clarity of tone in all parts of the room. In the early part of the evening local concerts will be heard and also the station in the Eastern States.

Pierre will be on hand with an especially palatable array of delicacies, which ought to tempt even the most discriminating of students. The concert will last from 8.30 till midnight and arrangements are being made to accommodate the crowd.

ADVOCATED NEW METHODS OF EDUCATION

Dean MacKay Spoke Before Social Workers

MASS TEACHING

Present System Holds No Place For Exceptional Boy or Girl

Present day methods of university education, "hotbed methods," are sadly in need of revision, Ira D. MacKay, Acting Dean of the Faculty of Arts at McGill, told an audience in the Royal Victoria College Tuesday afternoon, in an address on "The Present Impasse of Democracy." They substitute ready-made lectures for the grind of private study which the student in former years had to undergo, and therefore the student loses the advantage he would otherwise acquire from the conscious effort required for the acquisition of knowledge by personal application.

A Liberal education, Dean MacKay argued, was the most powerful influence in civilization. By this, he did not mean the kind of education by which men and women were trained for specific tasks, or for engaging in particular professions and industries. He meant rather the general education which fitted men and women to take their place in the world's work, and become useful citizens and members of society.

By modern methods of education children were taught in squads and companies, trying to make their minds move in the same way that their arms and legs did. This was done, simply because this form of organization was the simplest, cheapest and most primitive way for the handling of members of human units so as to give a superficial appearance of efficiency.

A democratic community was supposed to offer the amplest opportunity to the individual, yet any system which refused to recognize obvious differences in individual endowment effort and interest could not be designed to offer ample opportunity to the individual.

The fact seemed to be, that modern education was aiming to strike a low average. He thought, sometimes, education was aiming at the bottom rather than the top. He liked the dictatorship of the proletariat no more in the school than he did in the state. At present, the school stubbornly refused to make any adequate provision for the exceptional boy or girl. Consequently, too many of the brightest and most promising scholars grew tired of monotonous routine and left school as soon as the law allowed them while to the university was left the privilege of maintaining the passive listeners.

In this way, the supply of human leadership which Providence kindly put at the nation's disposal was lost to the community. No further need to wonder why Canada was producing so few scholars and statesmen of outstanding rank or why present statesmen were so far behind their predecessors in vision and venture.

He thought that something might be learned from the colleges of Japan. It was difficult to build a university on a foundation such as that of the Canadian public school. The latter was destined to deliver the whole community from gross ignorance, and the university was designed to offer a free opportunity to follow the path way of scholarship and distinction far ahead of the average citizen.

Democracy had no mission to replace aristocracy. It was destined to replace an aristocracy by one of genuine merit.

He pleaded for the privileged boy, the boy privileged by intellect and natural ability. Not the boy of wealthy parents or refined home but the boy of such character as will make of him the statesman of tomorrow. He pleaded for a school which would give such boys the chance to develop their outstanding abilities and characteristics. That would make of Montreal and McGill the bearer of a lighted candle from which other candles would be lit all along the cold corridor of Canada, until Canadian civilization became the shining light of the whole world.

The lecture was the last of the series of extension lectures arranged by the School of Social Workers, of McGill University.

MONTREAL, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1925.

THE REVUE.

There remain but three weeks till the Red and White Revue of 1925 makes its bow to McGill and Montreal. It is well to notice here that the Revue is bowing not only to McGill but also to Montreal. The plans of the General Committee, appointed by the Student's Council, are ambitious. We are told that the production this year is to be a step forward; that the faculty act has gone for good; that the aims of those in charge are towards an artistic and clever production. This seems to be the only safe attitude. If annual Revues are to be produced they must improve lest they lose their attraction, and to improve they must not only appeal to the student, but also find financial support among the theatre-going public of Montreal.

There has been criticism of course of action being followed by the Revue Committee. There are some who bemoan the fact that the Red and White Revue is designed to draw the public as well as the students; there are others whose main complaint is that there is no McGill Night. In the first place, the very fact that the Revue will prove attractive to the public is definite proof of the raising of the standard, and those who advocate a McGill Night must realize, upon consideration, that such can only result in a return to the irresponsible mob scenes of twelve years ago, which were entirely responsible for the discontinuation of "Theatre Night" and resulted in a greatly mistaken impression of McGill by thousands of people who read of the disorderliness of the affair.

There has been criticism, too, of the prices which are charged for the coming production, and this is more understandable. The Red and White Revue must not be conducted as a method of bleeding the student, but the latter must expect to be charged a fair price and in keeping with the standard of the show. It is true that last year the prices were low and it is equally true that the cost of production was low. This year the expenses are doubled, a professional orchestra, scenery, costumes and music paid for out of receipts are items that were not considered formerly. Last year the various faculties bore a large part of the incidental costs, while this year the entire cost is borne by the Revue organization. Thus it is apparent that the price scale must be more in keeping with the standard of excellence of the performance, and while a surplus is anticipated, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that the Student's Council can readily make use of any such surplus in promoting student welfare. The statement of the President of the Council was a fair one and a student reduction of 33 per cent on an average is entirely adequate, all things considered.

A performance is in sight which will be a credit to McGill and which will undoubtedly pave the way for even more ambitious effort along this line. Let McGill men, therefore, get behind the Revue and show, by their support, their appreciation of the work of the men who have devoted so much time and energy to make it an outstanding success.

THE IMPERIAL

THIS WEEK

The picture, "Reckless Romance" is full of humour. The hero, a spend-thrift possessing not much more than the clothes he wears, loves and is loved by the beautiful daughter of a crude old judge. A rich old uncle quite unexpectedly sent the lover ten thousand dollars to give him a start in the world.

The old lawyer agrees to consent to the match if the fiancée has the full ten thousand dollars or more at the end of a month.

As well as being in a financial tangle he is dragged into a love entanglement which is almost his undoing. He is asked to act as a co-respondent in a divorce case. The case is framed up by the husband who is threatened by his grandfather with having his allowance cut off. The antics of the old grandfather are comical in the extreme. Because of his absent-mindedness he appears in a fashionable restaurant minus his footwear. Here he has some exciting adventures.

France and Lapell present an extremely good exhibition of balancing.

Buchanan and Brower after several preliminary songs, give a graceful old fashioned dance which brought hearty applause.

Lew Welsh and Co. present an amusing skit.

Blanche and Jerry Creighton present a humorous "hick" dialogue. Creighton is full of fun and originality. Blanche is a pretty little country lass.

The Springtime Revue is full of pep with lively girls, snappy costumes; though almost the last on the programme is by no means last in merit.

MANDOLIN CLUB

All members are requested to be on hand to play at Jazz tea this afternoon at 4.45.

FINAL DAY FOR TICKETS IS MARCH 4TH

Box Office Opens March 2 At 12 Noon

LARGE DEMAND
 Time Of Purchasing Of Red and White Revue Tickets Extended

That the sale of exchange tickets to the students for the Red and White Revue will be continued till Wednesday of next week, was ascertained from the executive last night.
 Owing to a large number of requests from students to continue this sale till after the first of the month, the Committee has decided to postpone the last day of the sale from Saturday of this week to the middle of next week. Up till that date students will be able to obtain, from their class representatives, exchange tickets which represent a saving of fifty cents per seat, but after Wednesday, March 4th, students who have omitted to make their purchases will have to pay the regular price. The reasons for this are given by the Committee as being the necessity to have this sale more or less complete before the sale is open to the public.
 This demand for these tickets is reported to be large and the Committee has suggested that these purchases be made as early as possible. Owing to previous advertisement, it is impossible to postpone the date of the box-office opening and the tickets will be raised as advertised, at 12.00 p.m., on Monday March 2nd. This means that those students who have bought their exchange tickets will have first choice of seats when they arrive at the Union.

HISTORICAL CLUB MET ON TUESDAY

Papers Were Read and Discussed.

On Tuesday evening the Historical Club met at the residence of H. E. Byrdwell, Esq. Two papers were presented, one by J. G. Brierley on "The Canadian North" and the other by T. M. Gordon on "The Story of Alaska." These talks were followed by a discussion, after which the meeting was adjourned at a slightly earlier hour than usual.
 The attendance at this gathering of the club suffered on account of a postponement which took place from last week Prof. Williams was unfortunately unable to be present, but Prof. Waugh came to the meeting and took part in the discussion. A letter from last year's president, Laurence Toubes was read by Eugene Forsey, in which there was a reference to the death of an already distinguished former member, Randolph K. Jones.
 The resignation of Dudley Wilson was read and accepted, and after Prof. Waugh's announcement of the coming visit of a celebrated professor from the University of Wales, James Brierley commenced his paper. He confined himself to the voyages and discoveries of the seventeenth century, dealing hurriedly with the sixteenth. The subject matter included a recital of the adventures of Frobenius, Hendrick Hudson, Radisson, Le Moine, and others, together with a brief account of the early growth and development of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Miles Gordon spoke on the social and political aspect of the history of Alaska, beginning with its discovery by a Dane in the service of the Czar, Behring, and coming down to the difficulties of our own day regarding the government of this isolated branch of the American nation. Particularly interesting were the remarks of the speaker on the short period of lawlessness in Alaska at about the beginning of this century.
 The ensuing discussion was mostly on the possibilities of settlement and development of resources in the North-West Territories and the Yukon. Prof. Waugh set the argument in motion by asking for an opinion concerning the confidence of the American explorer, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, in the great future for Northern Canada, its immense potentiality for agricultural exploitation and the agreeable quality of its climate as compared with Winnipeg and Montreal. The conversation in which Read, Forsey, and Hurd were the principal participants, centred around this question, although the character of the indigenous inhabitants of the North and the geological configuration of the country were also remarked on.

Smooth, well-kept hair is now so easy to have!

UNKEMPT hair was once as nearly universal as smooth, neatly-combed hair is today.
 Of course, well-dressed men realized then as well as now that nothing spoils the whole appearance so quickly as hair that is out of place.
 But what could they do?
 Old-fashioned pomades only matted the hair and made it greasy. Water evaporated within an hour and left the hair drier and more unruly than ever. There wasn't a thing that could keep the hair smoothly in place from morning till night—natural, soft, lustrous.
 That's why Stacomb was introduced.
 At last—a way to keep the hair in place
 At first known only in California colleges, the story of Stacomb quickly spread. Today, well-dressed men everywhere have found in Stacomb what they have always needed—an easy, natural way to keep the hair looking just as they want it to look at all times.
 Perhaps you part your hair in the middle. Perhaps on the right side. Perhaps on the left. Perhaps you comb it straight back. It makes no difference; Stacomb will keep it just the way you like it best. A touch of it in the morning, and your hair will stay just the way you want it all day long.
 No matter how uncontrollable your hair may be after being washed—no matter how dry and straggly by nature—Stacomb will keep it in perfect order, always smooth, trim, lustrous.
 Women use Stacomb, too. They find it excellent to control stray hairs, to make the curl stay in, and to keep the hair severely close to the head in the prevailing fashion.
 Use Stacomb tomorrow morning, and look your best all day! A delicate, invisible cream—non-staining and non-greasy. In jars and tubes at your college drug store.

LECTURES ON LITERATURE OF CHRIST

Tells Of Literature and Teaching Affecting Jesus.

RABBI MERRITT

Impossible To Understand
Primitive Christianity
Without Background.

In the second of his talks, delivered in Strathcona Hall last Tuesday, Rabbi Merritt of Temple Emmanuel dealt with the Literary and Spiritual Heritage of Jesus. Following a short resume of the previous lecture he began with defining the three forms which the desire for a Messiah took. The first was simply political. The second was that of despair with earthly conditions and the hope of a Kingdom of God to follow death. The third was also one of despair for existing conditions but the members of the third group considered the Kingdom of God a thing of the soul which had no connection with existing conditions. Passages from the literature of each party were read to illustrate the stands they took.

Jesus, stated Rabbi Merritt, knew of these three groups and their views. At the beginning of his ministry he had to declare which idea he advocated and to declare his relationship to the idea. He decided for the third group advocating a Kingdom of God as a thing of the soul and independent of politics.

The speaker then dealt with the educational, moral, and ethical standards of the time. He told of the great teacher, Hillel, and the part which the teachings of this man probably played on the education of Christ. He told too of the influence of that Jewish literature which covered the time between the old and the new testament, proving that Christ was influenced through these works by numerous actual quotations of Christ Himself which either intirely or closely resemble passages from them. Most interesting perhaps of these quotations was a passage of practically the same context as the Lord's Prayer. Rabbi Merritt explained these similarities on the ground that Jesus was closely familiar with all the classical writings of his time and that many of his ideas such as those in regard to Family, Prayer, Repentance, and charity were gleaned from the Jewish literature. Next came a short discussion of things original with Jesus notably his attitude towards wealth. In this connection the Essenes, a sect of communists and pacifists, were mentioned and their probable influence brought up. Jesus, though trained by the Pharisees, gave considerable attention to contemporary opinion.

Rabbi Merritt closed his address with the remark that "Primitive Christianity, such as that led by Peter, could not be completely understood without a reconstruction of conditions such as that he has put before the two meetings.

At the request of the chairman Rabbi Merritt named several authorities and works relative to the subjects treated with. The meeting was well attended. R. B. MacLeod presided.

WESTERNERS FINAL MEETING MARCH 12TH

The final meeting of the Western club will be held on Thursday evening, March 12th at 8 o'clock. This was decided at a meeting of the executive of the Club Tuesday evening.

Sir A. Currie, the Hon. President has been invited to attend the final gathering. Music, moving pictures of the West, and humorous recitations are the outstanding attractions planned for the evening. It is possible that a speaker may be secured for the occasion. A short business meeting will precede the entertainment while refreshments and smokes will conclude the program.

LOEW'S

The bill at Loew's this week is one which will stand the ravages of time. The show gets away to a flying start for every movement of "Witt and Winters" is finished in spite of the fact that the act is short.

"Arthur Lloyd" proves undoubtedly that the hand is quicker than the eye for from his spacious pockets he pulls cards at the demand of the audience even producing a "Royal Flush."

"Benny Harrison" as the familiar post-man sends the audience into spasms of laughter.

"La piece de resistance" of the evening is "Jimmy Gidea and Co." This is a musical farce which contains much that is clever.

A musical treat is offered by "Corrado and Nollo" Recognized as America's foremost vaudeville tenor and prima donna, Agnes Nollo lives up to her reputation.

"Grazer and Lawlor" provide an artistic conception of dance and song. This is an ideal termination.

The feature presentation of the week is Tom Mix in "The Deadwood Coach." The picture is based on Clarence Mulford's "The Orphan." Indians, the old stage coach and ponies combine to make this a picture that stands favourably comparison with the best of Tom Mix's past productions.

Mix stars as the orphan, who early in life determines to avenge his father's death. Treated as a bad man which he is not, it takes considerable time before his true temperament is realized. The orphan proves his honesty by assisting Bill Shields—a man with a fund of common sense in crushing the hold ups. After various difficulties he marries the sheriff's sister and punishes his father's slayer.
